

VIDEO: How to Rig a Poncho Lean To

Shelter should always be a top priority, and while having the skillset to build natural shelters that can protect you from the elements is a great idea, it's also worth packing something that can be ready in just a couple of minutes. In this video, Jason Salyer shows us how he rigs a basic poncho into a lean-to configuration that can act as a windbreak, overhead cover from precipitation, or even provide shade.

With a couple of pieces of cordage, some anchor points, and a bit of practice, you can be out of the immediate elements in just a few minutes. Don't miss out on this opportunity to hone some new skills that could be the difference between soaking wet and staying dry on even the shortest of outings.

READ MORE: Review: Tops Knives C.U.T. 4.0

CLICK HERE

to find out more on the first aid techniques that will save your life when surviving in the wilderness!