

The Largest Dealer Pushes For Gun Control

Were you relieved to hear that the US Senate shot down all four gun control measures presented by the Democrats on June 20th? I was, but I was also just as disturbed to see that SCOTUS refused to hear the case against assault weapons bans.

No doubt Hillary and her merry band aren't going to stop pushing for gun confiscation here in the United States.

So why is it that the Obama administration allowed Hillary to make so many deals that practically sold our military assets to countries that have a record for serious human rights violations?

How is it that these countries, plus one or more companies that sold these weapons through Hillary also contributed massive amounts of money to the Clinton Foundation and/or to her political campaign?

When Sam Jacob at ammo.com sent me this infographic, my first thought was "this is incredibly disturbing because terrorists will be coming through our leaky sieve of an immigration system with guns that Hillary sold to them even as she moves to disarm our innocent citizens."

If you, or anyone else needs a good answer for why our citizens need to own an "assault weapon" here in the United States – quite frankly – the way things went down in Syria and this infographic says it all!

AN INDEPENDENT TRUTH HOW THE OBAMA ADMINISTRATION BECAME EARTH'S LARGEST ARMS DEALER

With the Obama presidency in its final year, there's one element of his foreign policy that has received little attention: his approval and expansion of weapons exports.

The Obama administration has approved more foreign sales of weapons than any U.S. president since Jimmy Carter. And many of those arms are sold to some of the world's most notorious authoritarian regimes. Even the most liberal of presidents of American arms companies have not sold as many weapons as Obama.

Below is a look at how the American arms export market works, why profits flow from sales, and why sales are up 10% in 2016.

How Many Weapons Does America Export?

How Are American Weapons Exported?

What is the Military-Industrial Complex?

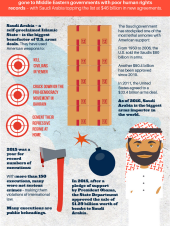

Defense contractors have one of the largest and most influential lobbying operations in Washington. They spend more on lobbying than any other industry, and they have a long history of influencing U.S. foreign policy.

Defense contractors have one of the largest and most influential lobbying operations in Washington. They spend more on lobbying than any other industry, and they have a long history of influencing U.S. foreign policy.

Defense contractors have one of the largest and most influential lobbying operations in Washington. They spend more on lobbying than any other industry, and they have a long history of influencing U.S. foreign policy.

Who is Buying Our Weapons?

LOCKHEED MARTIN

NATIONAL SECURITY SOLUTIONS

The Obama administration has approved 1,000 foreign sales of weapons worth $100 billion. That's a 10% increase over the 900 sales worth $90 billion approved by the Bush administration.

The Obama administration has approved 1,000 foreign sales of weapons worth $100 billion. That's a 10% increase over the 900 sales worth $90 billion approved by the Bush administration.

The Obama administration has approved 1,000 foreign sales of weapons worth $100 billion. That's a 10% increase over the 900 sales worth $90 billion approved by the Bush administration.

Does Owning A Gun Make You Less Christian?

Watch Video »

This article has been written by Carmela Tyrell for Survivopedia.

References:

<http://ammo.com/articles/earths-largest-arms-dealer-is-obama-administration-infographic>

<http://www.ibtimes.com/clinton-foundation-donors-got-weapons-deals-hillary-clintons-state-department-1934187>

<http://medium.com/@JeanetteJing/secretary-clinton-approved-millions-in-global-sales-for-the-sandy-hook-gun-maker-9e8b0e78c58d#.naku5aklu>