

The Real Reason Why Obama's Fostering Immigrants

When Obama was first running for office as President, he promised a "fundamental change for America." That was enough to convince enough of our low information voters that they should give him a chance. They were tired and dissatisfied with the way things were, having been carefully spoon fed by liberal politicians and pundits how "unfair" America was to them.

Of course, Obama never really defined what he meant by a "fundamental change." While some seem to think that was a mere oversight, I tend to think it was part of Obama's master plan. He knew that Americans wouldn't readily accept the changes he was planning on making, so he kept them secret.

Nevertheless, time has shown us what kind of change that Obama wants to make; ever since he entered office, he's been working tirelessly to increase government's size and control, while taking more and more of our freedom away from us. In essence, he's turning the nation socialist, as a waypoint on the road to communism or outright tyranny.

It's clear that someone is masterminding Obama's plan and has been working on it for years. Many of his actions go all the way back to his pot-smoking years at Harvard, where he and his Marxist buddies sat around developed plans for destroying America, encouraged by their Marxist loving professors.

Clearly, everything that Obama does is with the intent of destroying the America we all know and love and remaking it into something that he can love.

His ego won't allow him to accept the idea that others aren't in agreement with him; as far as he is concerned, those who aren't in agreement are all racists and terrorists. As he has clearly stated, he has a pen and a phone and he will go through with his agenda, whether anyone else likes it or not.

The Math Beyond the Children

With that in mind, it's safe to assume that the current influx of children who are crossing our southern borders must be part of Obama's plans. As the situation unfolds, that's looking more and more like the case. Obama has been pushing for a general amnesty for illegal aliens for some time and he's now using the plight of these children as a lever to force Republican lawmakers to go along with his plan.

Anyone who follows politics at all knows that the Democrat party has been pushing amnesty for a number of years. This is nothing new; nor is it something invented by Obama. However, Obama may just have found the lever he needs to pull it off.

Why are Democrats so interested in giving these illegal aliens the right to become U.S. citizens? Because they can count give them handouts from Washington, buying their loyalty and their votes.

Sixty-two percent of legal Latinos (those that can legally vote) identify themselves as being Democrats, while only 25 percent identify themselves as being Republicans. So, giving citizenship to illegal aliens makes good business sense for the Democrats. With those kinds of odds, they are guaranteed to win every election.

{adinserter usdeception}Using children to bring about “immigration reform” (read “amnesty”) is especially cruel. So far, over 50,000 unaccompanied minors have crossed our southern border this year. Why have they done so? Because they’ve been promised that they will receive all kinds of benefits for doing so.

Liberal pundits are calling this a “humanitarian crisis,” setting the stage for vilifying any Republicans who stand against giving these children and their families citizenship. They are clearly preparing to attack conservative lawmakers who want to secure our borders, making them out to be cruel, unfeeling ogres, who don’t care about the “plight” of these children.

I hope you realize that I’m not making that up. We’ve seen time and time again, how the left resorts to name calling in order to get their way. But this case goes much farther than name calling. Information has been surfacing to show that this current invasion is an intentional effort.

The first piece of evidence is the children themselves. The vast majority of these aren’t Mexicans, but from the countries of Central America. Typically, the largest percentage of illegal border crossers are Mexicans.

It is also rather rare to see unaccompanied minors cross the border by themselves; yet, the current crisis is mostly children. What is currently happening couldn’t be happening, without it being planned and coordinated.

The children themselves are taught what to say, in order to be allowed into the country. Our laws allow the immigration department to freely allow refugees to enter our country.

Without exception, these children are presenting themselves as refugees; talking about the dangerous situations in their own countries and how they are trying to escape. I don't know about you, but I haven't heard a word about those "dangerous situations."

Information is coming forth stating that the U.S. government told the news media in these Central American countries that unaccompanied children would not be turned away at the border.

If that is true, than it is clear that the government is working against us, trying to overflow our country with illegal immigrant children. The administration's response to this is to say that "we need these immigrants to boost our economy."

Payments, Payments, Payments

How is putting thousands more people on public assistance going to boost the economy? California alone is paying 25.3 billion dollars per year in costs to take care of these illegal aliens. That works out to $2,370 per taxpaying household headed by a U.S. citizen.

To offset that, the illegal aliens only pay an estimated 3.5 billion dollars in taxes. Even without all of the other liberal wastes of taxpayer money in California, dealing with the burden of supporting the 4.1 million illegal aliens in California could bankrupt the state.

One other glaring piece of data shows that this is part of Obama's plan to fundamentally change America. In January of this year, the Department of Homeland Security put out a request for bid, for "Escort Services for Unaccompanied Alien Children."

The request for bid stated that there would be as many as 65,000 of these children needing escorts and that the contract was intended to last five years. That looks like a smoking gun to me and to a lot of other people too.

So, what's the point of all this? Typically I'd say that it's about getting more Democrat voters. That's been how liberal politicians have used illegal immigrants in the past. However, these are children; and while some of them will be of voting age in a few years, most won't. That means that there has to be another reason for this action.

To find that reason, we have to go back to Obama's years as a pot-smoking student at Harvard. Two of his professors developed a theoretic means of creating a nationwide crisis which would give legitimacy to the president effectively declaring martial law.

About the only real difference we see between what is going on today and what those professors theorized in their plan, is that children are being used in the current version of the plan. Obama is putting thousands of children's lives at risk, so that he can have an excuse to do what he wants. I'd have to say, that's cynical politics at its worst.

Where is this going to go? Who knows? All I can say for sure is that like most of Obama's other actions, it's clearly going to hurt our country.

At the best, we can expect to see the government spend billions of dollars taking care of these children. But at the worst, we might just see the overthrow of life as we know it.

The truth about how US power grid will collapse.

WATCH VIDEO >>

This article has been written by Bill White for Survivopedia.