The Silent Invasion Of The Western World. US Next?

We talk of many different disasters to concern ourselves about and prepare for. Some are small, regional disasters, such as hurricanes. Others are nationwide disasters that will change the world as we know it. These disasters are the ones that we focus on, simply because of the great impact that they will have. That impact requires a much greater level of preparation… if we want to survive.

What if I was to tell you that we are all living in the midst of a world-changing disaster? One that will change life as we know it. A disaster that won't just affect the United States, but if the people who are propagating it have their way, will take over the world.

This disaster is taking place right before our eyes, but we don't see it as such. I'm of course, talking about the Islamic invasion of the western world.

The Muslim prophet Mohammed left his followers with a mission to fulfill; that of taking over the world in the name of Allah. They are commanded to either convert everyone to Islam, kill them or essentially enslave them with high taxes and no freedom. This is the baseline of the jihad, the holy war of Islam.

While the sword of Islam swept across North Africa, Europe and the Middle East, they never fully succeeded in their goals. Eventually the Christians of Europe started pushing back, eventually all but expelling the followers of Allah from all of Europe, even sending armies to the Middle East, in order to win back the Holy Lands.

Of course, the Muslims point to those Crusades as justification for their violence today. Apparently, in their minds, Christian violence over 600 years ago justifies their violence today. Oh, and by the way, the Crusades were defensive wars, fought to take back what the Muslims had conquered.

We could say that ISIS is merely the latest phase of a long list of wars which have been waged by Muslims, both against each other and against the world. As the stated purpose of ISIS is to unify Islam under a worldwide caliphate that would seem logical. But I don't see Saudi Arabia or Iran bowing to ISIS domination, do you?

The Silent Invasion

The other manner in which jihad is going forth today is via simple invasion. Islamic immigrants by the hundreds of thousands are leaving their homelands, in order to begin their lives anew in foreign lands. They come from different countries, but right now, the focus is on Syria, as that is where ISIS is fighting and killing.

Labeling themselves refugees gives these people a huge advantage in today's worldwide political climate. The world supposedly has a responsibility to refugees, which it might not have towards other immigrants.

That magical word shows that they are downtrodden and abused, worthy of special consideration and care. While that may be true, I can guarantee you that not all who claim that title are worthy of it.

The Syrian refugees are merely the most recent from Muslim lands. It seems that there is constant war in the Middle East, with one group constantly trying to exterminate another. I'm talking about different branches of Islam here. They're killing their own people off, because of their differences in interpreting their holy book.

However, these Syrian refugees are interesting in and of themselves. First of all, there are almost no Christians amongst them, even though ISIS is quick to kill all Christians who don't renounce Christ and convert to Islam.

Apparently, the only ones being allowed to leave as refugees are Muslims. But even then, there are certain things they are looking for. Seventy-five percent of these refugees are males of military age. They try to escape going to war. Or it looks very much like they are being selected and sent out by ISIS, for some purpose.

Europe is becoming overrun with Muslim refugees and has been since long before the current wave of Syrian refugees sought asylum. As with many immigrants, they tend to settle in pockets or ghettos, along with others of like faith and culture. While immigrants from other countries do the same, there's a huge difference between the way that Muslims do it and the way that others do.

Muslims move into a neighborhood or suburb to conquer it. No, they're not using swords to do so (at least, not that I've heard); they're using social pressure and the law. They're taking advantage of political correctness, playing up the part of being mistreated minorities. But they are far from that.

The Qur'an tells them that they are to rule the earth. They are the head and all infidels are beneath them. As such, they can mistreat any infidel in any manner they so choose. We have no rights and our laws really don't mean a thing to them.

In fact, seems like the only time they pay attention to our law, is when they can twist it to their advantage. Seeing as they don't obey the laws of the countries that they move to, it's not unusual for some of these Muslims to abuse the inhabitants, as in their eyes, those people are mere infidels.

The goal of every one of these Muslim neighborhoods, communities or ghettos is to convert it to a Muslim controlled community, ruled by Sharia law. That is the only law they recognize and the only one to which they will submit. European laws or American laws mean nothing to them.

It has reached a point now in Europe where the Muslims have succeeded in taking over communities and making them “no go” zones. Infidels are not welcome in those areas, even infidel police. The Muslim population is self-governing, creating their own courts that follow Sharia law, regardless of what national laws declare.

Infidels who enter these no go zones are greeted with hostility, even violence at times. But most often, all they need to do is display their hostility and people leave. Muslims have enough of a reputation for violence that normal people don’t want to mess with them.

France is the worst for this, but they are by no means the only country with Muslim no go zones. We’re even seeing them start to crop up here in the United States. The city of Dearborn, a suburb of Detroit, is almost totally taken over my Muslims, making it the biggest no go zone in the United States. I’ve seen videos, taken by infidels who dared to wander into that area, and the hostility that was displayed towards them.

Everything Has Its Price

With so many refugees, one has to ask why none of them are going to the Muslim lands that border upon Syria. That is the historic norm for refugees of any type. One would naturally assume that refugees would go to the nearest country where they would be safe. After all, that's what normally happens.

But not in this case; no, these refugees are paying thousand Euros each to have someone "guide" them to European countries. If they're in such sad shape, where are they getting that money from?

Obviously, there's more here than meets the eye. Someone or some organization is behind this exodus, paying for these people to go to Europe and spread Islam. Whoever it is, has made the decision to invest in this, with the expectation that these people will eventually convert Europe.

The other factor for why they are going to Europe, rather than to the surrounding Muslim countries is that the Muslim countries haven't adopted socialist attitudes towards redistributing the wealth.

In a European country they can count on the government giving them food, money and a place to stay. If they go to one of the surrounding Muslim countries, about all they're going to get is a tent in a refugee camp, if that.

This is placing an incredible strain on the economies of these European countries. These people aren't moving there to work; they're not moving to become a useful member of society; they're moving there to take over the countries they move to and demand that the country's government pay them to do so.

Of course, this isn't limited to Europe either. Some percentage of these "refugees" are making it to the United States as well. We really don't have any idea how many are, simply because the government is lying to us. However, it appears that Obama has already allowed over 60,000 of them to immigrate to the United States.

That's not counting those who have managed to sneak across our southern border, along with the "refugee children" from Central America. Unlike the Syrian refugees, these haven't even come from a war zone, merely from countries which have had a violent culture for years. Why that makes them refugees now, when they weren't ten years ago, is beyond me.

The Border Patrol is under orders to list anyone from the Middle East, who crosses our southern border, as "OTM" which stands for "other than Mexican." That's it. There's no further identification, showing how many of the OTMs who cross our border are actually from the Middle East.

There could literally be thousands who have joined this jihad and have snuck across our border to help build the Islamic community here in the United States.

Like they are doing in Europe, those Muslims will try and take over communities, bringing them under Islamic control and Sharia Law. We can expect to see them creating more no go zones and establishing their own Sharia tribunals, rather than accepting our civil and criminal law.

The Muslims in Texas already tried this, establishing their own tribunal, without any legal right to do so. They didn't even bother getting a law passed or check to see if it was legal. They just started it, daring the city to do anything.

Well, the Mayor of Irving, Texas, where this tribunal was started, ordered that to be shut down, declaring the tribunal illegal. That, of course, was answered with cries of "racism" and "discrimination" but in reality, no law, outside of American law has any standing in the United States.

A German or French citizen has no right to expect to be tried in a German or French court in the United States, so why should Muslims be allowed a Muslim court?

The big scare behind all this is actual terrorists coming into the United States. We know that some are, as Border Patrol captured 10 ISIS soldiers in McAllen, Texas a few months ago. If normal statistics hold true, where ten were caught, another 100 made it through.

Those 10 aren't all that has happened. The latest count I've heard is that there have been over 3,000 known terrorists or people on terrorist watch lists, who have been granted entrance to the United States, under Obama's relaxed enforcement of immigration laws.

So, you see, our society and our way of life is under direct attack. We are literally facing a situation where we are soon going to see TEOTWAWKI, even without a major event happening. As they gain more and more ground in the United States, they are going to push more and more for Sharia to become the law of the land, whether formally or informally.

Muslims are already getting exceptions in all sorts of areas. Muslim men in the military are allowed to wear Muslim head coverings and have beards, while nobody else is allowed any sort of special dress.

Islam is being taught in our public schools, as part of Common Core curriculum. Muslims are winning every case they bring up, where they are asking an exemption from doing the jobs they were hired to do, if they can argue that it defies their religion.

We are losing the war with the immigrants; and unless we stand up like Australia and a few other countries, we will lose it all. They will take over the United States, one court case at a time, with the progressive liberals bowing down to them, in order to not hurt their feelings. It doesn't matter what the majority of our citizens want, it has already become a capitulation to give them what they want.

At some point, we the people are going to have to stand up and say “Enough is enough.” Our politicians won’t do it; our media won’t do it. No, it’s up to you and I to do it, or it won’t be done. So, what are you going to do if not to stand up and be counted?
