

Paris – Ground Zero For The European Jihad

It has become increasingly clear to anyone who has been watching since 9/11, that the attack on the twin towers wasn't an isolated incident, but rather the opening salvo in a new war. While President Bush responded to it by declaring his infamous "War on Terror," he was late, terror, compliments of a number of Islamic organizations, had already declared war on the western world.

I say the western world, rather than the United States, because up until the last few years, there have been very few terrorist attacks on the United States. Yet during those ensuing years, those terrorist organizations have been busy in Europe. It wasn't really until the rise of ISIS, that we saw much of an increase of Islamic terrorism here at home.

But we are not the first target in the plans for this jihad. While the Muslim world hates the United States and fully intends to bring us down, they have decided to go after Europe first. More specifically, it appears that they have chosen France as ground zero.

The terrorist attacks in Paris on Friday the 13th, are the second major terrorist attack in Paris to receive worldwide press this year. Together with the attack on Charlie Hebdo, earlier this year, Islamic terrorists have succeeded in killing over 180 people in Paris this year (final numbers on this latest attack are still unsure as of this writing). While not coming anywhere close to the attack on the twin towers, this is a significant number of innocent lives ended, in a war to conquer the world.

Make no mistake, this is a war and its goal is world conquest. Muslim leaders have made it clear that this is a holy war, a jihad, with the goal of creating a worldwide Islamic caliphate. Under such a caliphate, the rest of us have three options: convert to Islam, become what is essentially their slaves or die. If we hesitate in deciding, they'll decide for us and just kill us.

While Muslims are invading all of Europe, it is clear that they are concentrating on the wealthier countries. Germany, Sweden, Switzerland, Italy, Britain and France have all accepted large amounts of refugees, mostly from Syria, and are all feeling the effects of these new residents.

And while immigrants and refugees are normally expected to assimilate into the host country's culture, Muslims emphatically state that the host country must adapt to them, taking businesses, individuals and even the government itself to court over every imagined slight against their beliefs.

France has received more than their fair share of these legal attacks. Earlier this year, reports came out about the "no go zones" throughout France; areas which had been taken over by the Muslim population and where the population has made it clear that everyone else is unwelcome, including the police.

The coordinated Friday the 13th attack makes the terrorist death toll in France higher than any other nation in Europe this year. It is clear that France has been singled out for special attention by the jihadists. While there is no way that we can be certain about the reason for this, unless the terrorists themselves tell us, there are a few possible reasons we can speculate about:

- France is the most socialist of the Western European countries, giving the terrorists much more of an open door to work in.
- The French Army hasn't won a war in over a century. That makes the country look weak.
- France is a wealthy country, meaning that taking it over would provide a good source of income to the jihadists.

- France borders Germany, England, Italy and Spain; along with France, these countries have the greatest GDP of all European countries, with the exception of Russia. That makes the conquest of France a very key strategic goal.

As to the attackers in Friday's massacre, information is slowly dribbling out. Of greatest import, one of the attackers was carrying a passport identifying him as a Syrian refugee, who entered Europe through Greece and then moved on to France.

One of the other terrorists who was captured has identified himself as being a member of ISIS and claimed the attacks were done under the auspices of ISIS. This agrees with press releases made by ISIS leadership themselves. Other attackers were French citizens, all of whom were known to have Muslim sympathies.

So there is no question that the attack was a Muslim attack. But was that all? German police stopped a car that was en route to Paris, carrying a virtual arsenal on board. Could it be that the attack was not as large as originally planned, simply because of a lack of arms?

Of course, the French people are extremely limited in their rights to own any firearms. Apparently, pistols are virtually prohibited, as are all fully-automatic firearms. Rifles and shotguns can be purchased, if one has a permit for ownership for either hunting or sporting purposes. That permit requires a psychological evaluation and must be renewed regularly.

This wasn't an issue for the terrorists, who like all criminals just ignored the law. But it did ensure that the terrorists would have little to no opposition, as the only ones who could oppose them were the police.

Eyewitness reports from inside the concert hall say that the terrorists had ample time to calmly reload their AK-47s several times, before spraying the crowded hall with more gunfire.

This is the type of country that the Democrat Party wants to give us. They want to take our rights to own firearms away from us, while importing hundreds of thousands of Muslims, at least some of which are bound to be terrorists. If they are not in cahoots with the terrorists, they are fools who are working in such a way as to make it easier for the jihadists to have their way in our country and bring the same sort of attack, with the same sorts of results.

Had there been only one or two citizens in that concert hall who were carrying concealed, the outcome may have been much different. Granted, going up against a fully-automatic assault rifle with nothing more than a pistol is dangerous and the concealed carrier would probably have died. But if they had succeeded in killing or even severely wounding even one of the gunmen, it would have saved dozens of lives.

This video was first seen on Inside Edition

So where does this leave us here in the United States? First of all, we now have proof that ISIS is using the Syrian refugee situation to infiltrate their soldiers into the countries that are being invaded. That's not really a surprise, as many conservative politicians and commentators have voiced that very concern.

But we have to take into account the full scope of the invasion that is happening today. Since Obama took power, he has allowed more than 250,000 Muslim immigrants each and every year. Of these, only about 10% have skills which allow them to become self-supporting, without depending on government assistance. So, you and I are literally financing this jihad with our tax dollars, as Obama gives them our money so that they can come here to wage war against our culture.

We know that they are waging war against our culture, because we see it all the time. Not all of them are doing so with automatic weapons and explosive vests. Many are doing so in the courtrooms. These are the supposed “moderates.” How is it moderate to demand that our culture change to match their restrictive, oppressive law?

Then there are those who are committing outright acts of violence. Since 2011, more than 100 Muslims have been charged with jihad-related crimes, here in the United States.

Obama’s administration claims that we face a greater danger from right-wing supremacist terrorists, but that’s only because they label every such event as an act of terrorism, while they refuse to admit that any Muslim act of violence is an act of terrorism and jihad; rather, it is “workplace violence.”

So there’s no question that we have Muslim terrorists here within our borders. The only questions are how many of them are here and what they are going to do. That we’re going to have to wait to see.

Coincidentally, the same day that they were attacking Paris, the first 10,000 Syrian refugees landed in New Orleans. They will be processed there and moved out to the receiving cities, where they will be allowed to live off of your and my tax dollars.

Since the leftist government will be vetting them, we can be sure that they won’t care how many terrorists are in that group. We’ll find out when their acts are reported as another case of workplace violence, while the liberal media tries to spin it into being right-wing conservatives that did it.

Friends, we are living in dangerous times. If you don’t have a concealed carry license, get one, before it is too late. Start carrying, every minute you are awake. Get to the shooting range and get some practice. Learn how to put down those terrorists. You might just be the one who stops such an event from happening. There's no time to wait.

Coming "Religion War" To Kill Millions Of American Christians

Watch Video »

This article has been written by Bill White for Survivopedia.